Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims 6-8 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in Paper No. 6. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancelation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The above claim is indefinite and confusing because the requirement that the pellets be cooled down to at least a range between 233 and 100 degrees C makes the claim unclear as to what the maximum or minimum temperatures are allowed by the claim, i.e., can the pellets be cooled down to below 100 degrees C (as would appear by the term "at least") and is the maximum cooling temperature 100 degrees C or 233 degrees C? Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 4 and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Babcock et al. Babcock et al teaches a method of producing reduced iron pellets from raw materials including iron ore powder and carbonaceous powder (see col. 1 lines 30-45 for example), where the process includes reducing the pellets and cooling the reduced pellets in a rotary cooling chamber where the pellets are subjected to rolling and cooled at a temperature between 800 and 1200 degrees C (see col. 9 lines 25-40 for example) and a further cooling step to at least 233 degrees C (see the embodiment of figure 1 for example) thereby showing all aspects of the above claims since the rolling as described in Babcock et al would inherently sinter the pellets.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 5 and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Babcock et al. As applied to claim 4 above, Babcock et al shows all aspects of the above claims except the step of specifically maintaining the reduced pellets within the temperature range of 800 and 1200 degrees C for between 3 and 20 minutes while imparting rolling to the pellets, although as expressed in Babcock et al at col. 9 lines 25 to 40 for example, the pellets are subjected to rolling in the cooling chamber and are passed through the temperature range from 1970 degrees F (1076.66 degrees C) to 1100 degrees F (593.33 degrees C) at a rate of less than 200 degrees F (93 degrees C) per minute, meaning that the reduced iron pellets are subjected to rolling within the temperature range of 1076.66 degrees C and 800 degrees C for at least 2.97 minutes, thereby encompassing the time range of 3 to 20 minutes instantly recited. The subject matter as a whole would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made because it has been well settled that where a claimed range r falls within a broad range recited by the applied prior art, a prima facie case of obviousness exists. See MPEP 2144.05 I, and In re Wertheim, 191 USPQ 90.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on 11-5-2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argument that Babcock does not teach the step of sintering the pellets during the rolling step is not persuasive because, as stated in the above rejections, the pellets would reasonably be expected to inherently sinter when subjected to the rolling and cooling as described by Babcock et al, since the rolling and cooling in Babcock et al fall within or overlap the parameters recited in the rejected claims.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
